Teachers take it to the streets as talks break down

By John King
Ontario's educational machine ground to a halt Monday, when frustrated teachers took to the streets in an effort to get the Minister of Education to back off on Bill 160.

"We'd all rather be inside doing what we do best," said one teacher from Herb Campbell Public School, "but this government hasn't given us a choice."

Those sentiments were echoed a short distance down the street by Macville Public School staff.

"We really hoped this would be avoided, but this bill has got to be stopped," said a teacher who asked not to be identified. "This government is stripping the education system in the name of the bottom line."

Talks between union officials and the ministry broke off late Sunday afternoon, when facilitator Charles Dubin realized that negotiations had reached an impasse.

"We teachers are extremely resolved," said Krystyna Peever, who represents 2,900 teachers in Roman Catholic Separate schools in Dufferin and Peel. "We're convinced that we are doing the right thing."

"This government's propaganda machine is doing even more to convince teachers that the repressive tactics of the provincial government are nothing more than an attempt to further cut the education budget," she said.

Peever said plans to reimburse parents $40 a day for childcare is an attempt to buy off parents that will backfire because parents want teachers, not babysitters.

There are many aspects of Bill 160 that have infuriated teachers.

"Bill 160 will not improve education," said D'Arcy Kingshot, Peel District president of the Ontario Secondary School Teacher's Federation. "It will only shift control from the local community to cabinet."

"This will result in at least another $1 billion in cuts to education and an absolute shift in power to the Ministry of Education," he said.

Both union representatives agree that with 25,000 new students enrolling in Ontario schools each year, any further cuts to the system will be devastating.

Some of the main issues that have created the standoff are a proposed 50 per cent reduction of preparation time for secondary school teachers, the plan to use about 30 per cent uncertified teachers in the classrooms, and the government's plan to regulate class size.

Union representatives and teachers said support from area parents has been encouraging.

"The public does not believe that the Harris government should be setting education policy for Ontario," said Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association president Marshall Jarvis. "It's obvious from the decisive survey numbers that the Ontario public is deeply suspicious of the Harris government's ability and intentions when it comes to setting education policy."

"The government has said all along that quality education is at the root of Bill 160, but the public has not bought that message because it sees what really goes on

Bolton seniors honour local contributors

The many individuals and organizations that contributed to the construction of the Bolton Seniors Centre were honoured recently.

About forty area seniors attended the Oct. 14 event, which saw 11 local businesses receive a plaque of recognition and the heartfelt appreciation of the Senior Centre's members.

President Bob Smith said the seniors are really enjoying the facility and membership is continuing to grow.

"The seniors, along with the Rotary, just wanted a chance to say thank you to the people who have helped and are continuing to help promote and beautify the Seniors recreational building," he said.

Among those presented with awards were: James Dick Concrete and Aggregates, Diplock Floor Ltd., the Town of Caledon, Caledon Senior Euchre Club, Coldwell Banker Results Realty, Bolton and District Horticultural Society, Glen Echo Nurseries, Sunshine Country landscape, Caledon Senior Centre Volunteers, Rotary Club of Bolton, Sant's Cold Creek Landscape and Caledon Hydro.

The Rotary Club of Bolton worked along with many others to erect the building, and it was only after a number of years that it was finally completed, said Smith.

Upon structural completion of the facility, the Rotary turned the premises over to a board of directors, which include 11 representatives from the seniors and three from the Rotary.

"We are pleased it is working so well," said Smith. "The volunteer effort has been tremendous and the seniors feel very fortunate."

The latest beautification steps include a concrete parking lot, an outdoor patio and shuffleboard, lights for the parking lot, and the placement of shrubs and trees.

Aggregate tensions ease

The Region of Peel last Thursday approved a new mineral resource policy, which should provide a "significant number of environmental safeguards," according to Mayor Carol Seglins.

"This is a huge step towards safeguarding Caledon," said Seglins. "The policy allows Caledon to restrict certain properties from ever being developed, to control pit openings and to plan the rehabilitation of pits to the advantage of the community."

Seglins said the policy was the result of days of meetings involving the province, the Region, Caledon, citizen groups, the Niagara Escarpment Commission, conservation authorities and aggregate producers.

"These regional discussions mirror those of the Caledon Community Resource Study, which is effectively and productively being chaired by councillor Ian Sinclair for local level policies," she said.

"I am also excited because it shows Caledon does have a voice that is loud enough to be heard at the province," Seglins said. "These current discussions brought everyone together to talk and all stakeholders realized that consensus could be found. When the Ontario government first changed what we had proposed for the regional policy, everyone appealed, but now for the first time in decades we are optimistic we have found a solution."

The policy passed by Peel Council for inclusion in the Region's Official Plan must now be approved at an OMB hearing scheduled for Jan. 9, 1998.

"The OMB hearing which was expected to cost hundreds of thousands of dollars and be very contentious should now be brief and conciliatory," said Seglins. "Constructive communication and commitment to resolution have again proven more effective than fighting."

Teachers stage political protest in the province's classrooms," Jarvis said. "The public knows you can't take a billion dollars and 10,000 teachers out of our schools and improve the quality of education. The numbers just don't add up."

All of the other major Ontario unions have added their support to the teachers' struggle.

"What the Harris government has failed to realize is that this fight is not about teachers and the government," said Ontario federation of Labour President Gord Wilson in a news release. "This is a fight for our education system."

"The teachers of this province are the only line of defence standing between this government and its scheme to get control of education in this province and pull millions of dollars out of the system," Wilson said. "When the picket line goes up there will be support for our teachers by the working men and women of Ontario."

The Peel Board of Education has released an announcement urging parents to keep their children at home until the dispute is settled. However, schools will technically remain open with minimal staff and activities.

Council briefs

The following are results of the Oct. 20 Town of Caledon Council meeting.

• The Nov. 17 council meeting is cancelled.

• Council proclaimed Nov. 9 to Nov. 15, as Unity in Diversity Week, after a submission by Mr. Brian Boyle of Baha'is Caledon.

• James Douglas, president of the Belfountain Heritage Society informed council the Society needs $30,000 for restoration work to the Melville White Church. Surplus funds from the campaign donations to David Hughes were directed towards the restoration of the building on Mississauga Road.

• Bolton and District Lions Club received permission to hold a Turkey Shoot on Nov. 29, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

• Staff were instructed to schedule a public meeting into a proposed Official Plan amendment supporting an amendment to Property Standards By-law 86-24, regulating the maintenance of and setting standards for properties in the Town of Caledon.

• Council instructed the Parks and recreation Department to include funds in the 1998 budget for council approval to implement a skateboard program in Caledon East. In the interim skateboarding will be permitted at the Caledon Community Complex. The Town will provide benches, picnic tables and trash cans, but will not permit participants to loiter in or around the complex.

Ian Sinclair is running for Regional Councillor for Ward One

The effects of downloading services, a permissive new Municipal Act, less provincial control and reduced funding mean that municipalities will become the key institutions capable of protecting and enhancing collective community needs.

More than ever, councillors must have experience, dedication and the qualifications necessary to deal effectively with this new reality. I am a landscape architect and owner of my own firm since 1975.

As area councillor for Ward 1, I have drafted and moved motions resulting in council's adoption of:

- The Town's first Purchasing Control By-law setting out procedures for the control and competitive pricing for all goods and services.
- The Town's first Budget Control Bylaw setting out procedures for progressive reports on expenditures for council's control.
- The Town's first Comprehensive policy manual setting down what the policies are, level of approval (Council, C.A.O. or Department Head) and date of latest version.
- The formation of a citizen ad hoc committee on Parks and Recreation Policy Review.
- The Town's first capital inventory of park facilities.

I have served as a member of the Mayor's ad hoc committee on Management Staff Performance Review Policy. From 1994 to 1997, I sat as council representative on the Board of Caledon Community Services, and I supported the reduction of councillor's salaries by $5,000 a year. I have also supported zero mill rate increases for three years and the maintenance of all reserve funds.

Through these achievements I have demonstrated my ability to work cooperatively with other councillors and staff for the benefit of ratepayers.

As the Chairman of the Community Advisory Group of the Caledon Community Resource Study, I have been a leader in the attempt to formulate responsible and balanced mineral aggregate policies for the Town and region. I am also the Region of Peel's representative on the Niagara Escarpment Commission and council representative on the Caledon Environmental Advisory Committee.

I get things done. My record of attendance at all meetings is excellent, with no conflicts of interest, and I finish what I start.

I believe in Caledon's future as a viable countryside with small villages next to the urban GTA. I am committed to smaller, more effective and efficient government by seeking out ways of doing things differently.

I have the experience, dedication and qualifications to represent Ward One and the Town as a whole on regional Council for the next three eventful years.

Paul Mercer, former school board trustee is running for Regional Councillor for Ward One.

The challenge ahead is to ensure that Caledon remains a great place to live and work. We face many issues affecting our taxes, services, the environment and even the control we have over our communities.

Provincial reforms significantly affect our property tax bills and are so far-reaching they even affect the assessment base for local taxes in a manner yet to be determined. It is therefore impossible to make a definite impact statement on local portion.

The new provincial portion of the property tax will contain pooling of GTA-wide services and other new provincial levies. This raises serious questions of accountability and the purpose of property tax when only a small portion of it is controlled locally.

The latest Oct. 6 tax proposal from the province gives the power to Regions to distribute some costs by population, assessment or by other means. If costs are distributed by population, Caledon will be a big loser as we will no longer see the beneficial effect of costs spread over the huge south Peel tax base.

There are ample reasons to be concerned about an increase in property tax because of provincial changes. Any increase is not affordable. It would also threaten Caledon's ability to deliver important local services and needed improvements. Obviously we must resist any net provincial downloading.

Regardless of provincial change, council must work together and focus on locally controlled operating efficiencies, cost sharing initiatives, selective industrial growth and community priorities.

Rural residents are concerned about deficient gravel roads. I will support a phased chip and tar paving program as a rural priority. Communal sewage systems may impact the ability of communities to define their size and character. New sewage technologies allow city densities on rural land. The acid test will be Inglewood and other communities to follow.

Orangeville's rapid growth proposal places undue pressure on Caledon's water quality, groundwater and transportation corridors.

Property rights and values are major issues as a result of Mr. Leach's modifications to the Region Official Plan. They protect the aggregate industry, but not residents. Removing the minister's damaging clauses and fairly resolving the local management plans and policies is the only option.

Caledon Council needs to be more effective. Councillors should have proven people, political and business skills.

I believe my private sector company management experience and my performance as Caledon's elected representative on the Peel Board will benefit Ward One and Caledon. I have enjoyed working with a Caledon-wide constituents to solve problems and take advantage of opportunities. Finally I look forward to making a positive contribution to Caledon and regional Council.

NOTICE TO ELECTORS - BY-LAWS OR QUESTIONS

Municipal Elections Act, 1996 (s.8(6))

NOTICE is hereby given to the Municipal Electors of
THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF CALEDON

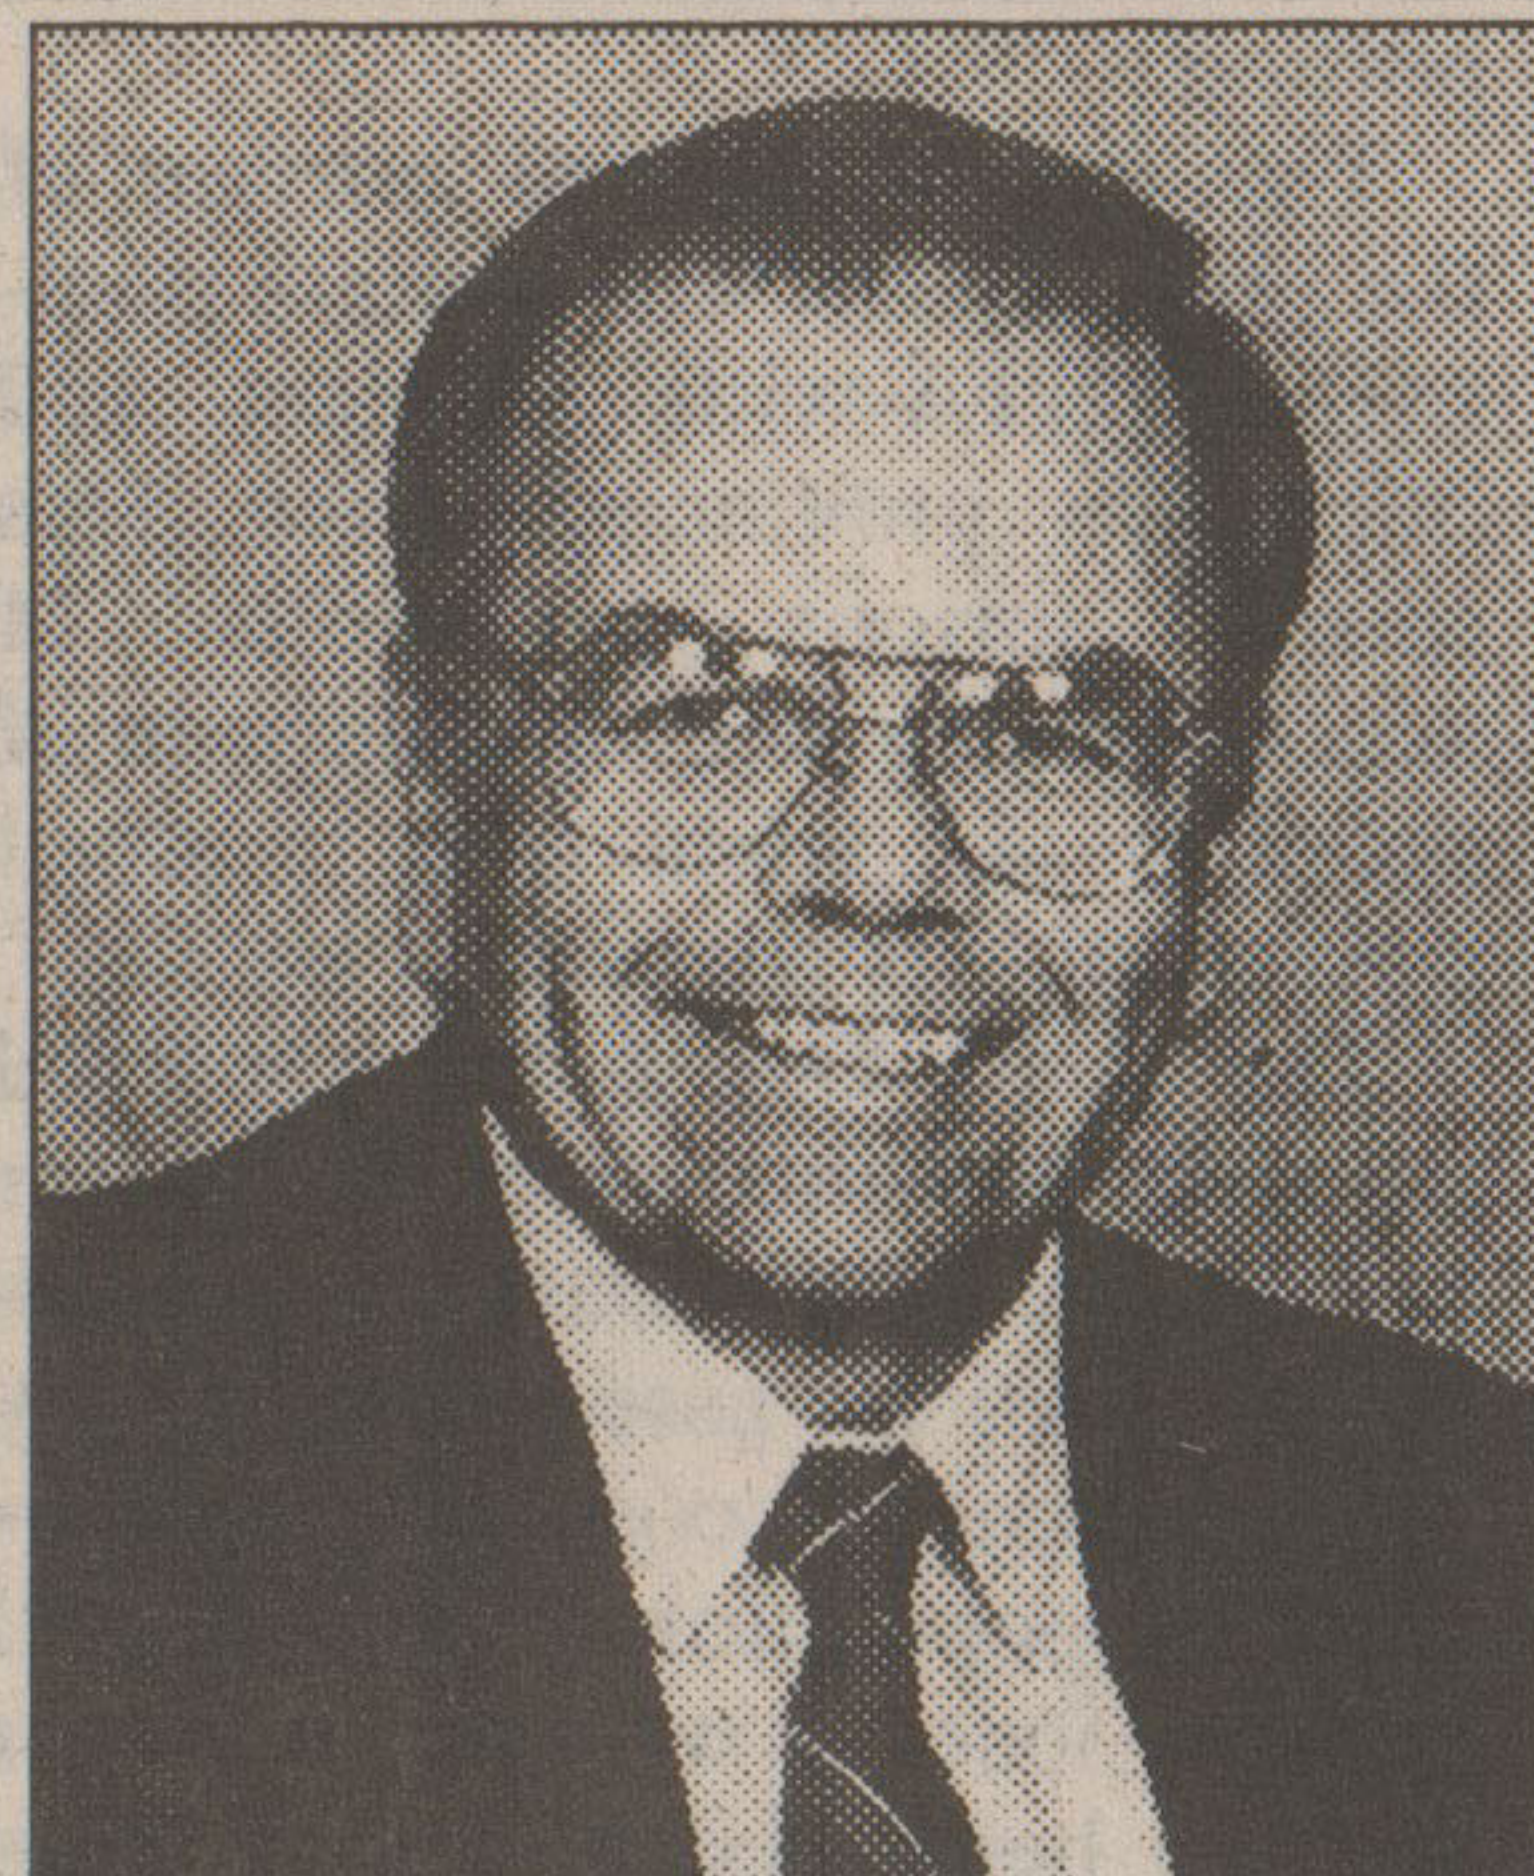

The Council of the Town of Caledon has passed By-Law #97-105 authorizing the following question to be placed in the municipal elections to be held on Monday, November 10, 1997.

On the question "Should welfare, social services and social housing be paid for from provincial revenues rather than local property taxes?"

YES _____ NO _____

Dated this 9th day of October, 1997

Marjory Morden
Town Clerk & Returning Officer

Richard Whitehead is seeking reelection as Regional Councillor for Wards Three and Four.

I am an 11-year veteran of county and regional government. I represent Albion (Ward 4) and Caledon East (Ward 3) of the Town of Caledon. I'm also on the Board of the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority.

As a strong environmentalist, I believe in the ecosystem approach to community living. Water is our most precious resource and the essential ingredient to life itself.

We must protect and conserve it in every way possible.

I support fiscal restraint and consistently demand a no tax increase policy. We need a comprehensive strategic plan for our community and the adoption of a business plan for our municipality. It's time to take charge of our own future.

I believe that a moderate residential growth policy combined with a strong emphasis on industrial and commercial development, as well as job creation, is the best combination for a stable local economy.

The next three years will be crucial for the long term viability of our healthy communities. If Caledon is to survive and prosper into the next century, we must work together to find better solutions.

I strongly urge you to vote yes on the referendum question. We need to tell the provincial government, in no uncertain terms, that the property tax payer is fed up continuing to pay for provincial welfare, social services and social housing. You want it Mike? You pay for it.

Four issues will dominate the next term of office. They are taxation, economic development, local government reform and the protection of our environment and precious natural resources.

We simply must become more innovative, entrepreneurial and accountable in the way we do business. Good government means fairness, equity, sharing and the belief that it can always be better, stronger and more complete.

We owe it to ourselves and our future to always find the better answer.

Peel selects interim CAO

The Region of Peel has appointed Roger Maloney as interim Chief Administration Officer (CAO), following the recent resignation of Michael Garrett.

The CAO is responsible for the overall management of the Regional Corporation, and for coordinating all administrative and service functions within the region.

Maloney is currently the Region's Commissioner of Housing and General manager of Peel Living. Prior to his appointment as Commissioner in 1990, Maloney was Director of Operations for Peel Living for seven years.

"We selected Roger because of his strong track record for leadership and his excellent management skills," said Regional Chair Emil Kolb. "We are pleased to have someone with his experience and knowledge step into the position of interim CAO."

Maloney, who will assume his new duties on Oct. 24, said he is looking forward to taking over as CAO until a permanent replacement is named.

"I am eager to start and will do my best to serve council and to provide strong leadership to Regional employees," he said.

Council will assemble a selection committee to direct a search for a new CAO. The committee, consisting of the Regional Chair and councillors who are currently the chairs of standing committees and the Budget Ad Hoc Committee, is expected to provide a short list of candidates early in the new year.

Jim Eberly is running for Regional Councillor for Ward 3 and 4.

When I identify a need I go out and do something about it. Like the time I realized there was a need to raise money and awareness for Cystic Fibrosis research. I thought things over and went for a couple of walks. First I walked to Timmins from Bolton, and then I walked to Hamilton. I raised $40,000 for Cystic Fibrosis research.

I'm a guy who gets things done. Like I tell my kids, you can do anything you want in this life.

As a local businessman, I have lived in the Caledon area with my wife, Maureen, for 17 years, raising three children here. I know the community and have a long record of local community service, including amateur sports, the Kinsmen club, where I am past president, the Santa Claus parade, and the Cystic Fibrosis Association.

I hope to unseat Richard Whitehead in the upcoming election. I think I can do a better job than the incumbent. I can offer fresh ideas and creative solutions.

I have approached this campaign with the same vigor that characterized my trek to Timmins in 1994. I have identified the issues that affect local voters and researched them thoroughly, and I have begun to formulate solutions. The issues include growth and development, both residential and commercial, environmental issues, taxation, efficiency in government, downloading, roads, safety, emergency and policing services, size of council and membership in the GTA.

I don't claim to have all the answers yet, but the homework I've done so far bears out my reputation as a guy who gets things done.

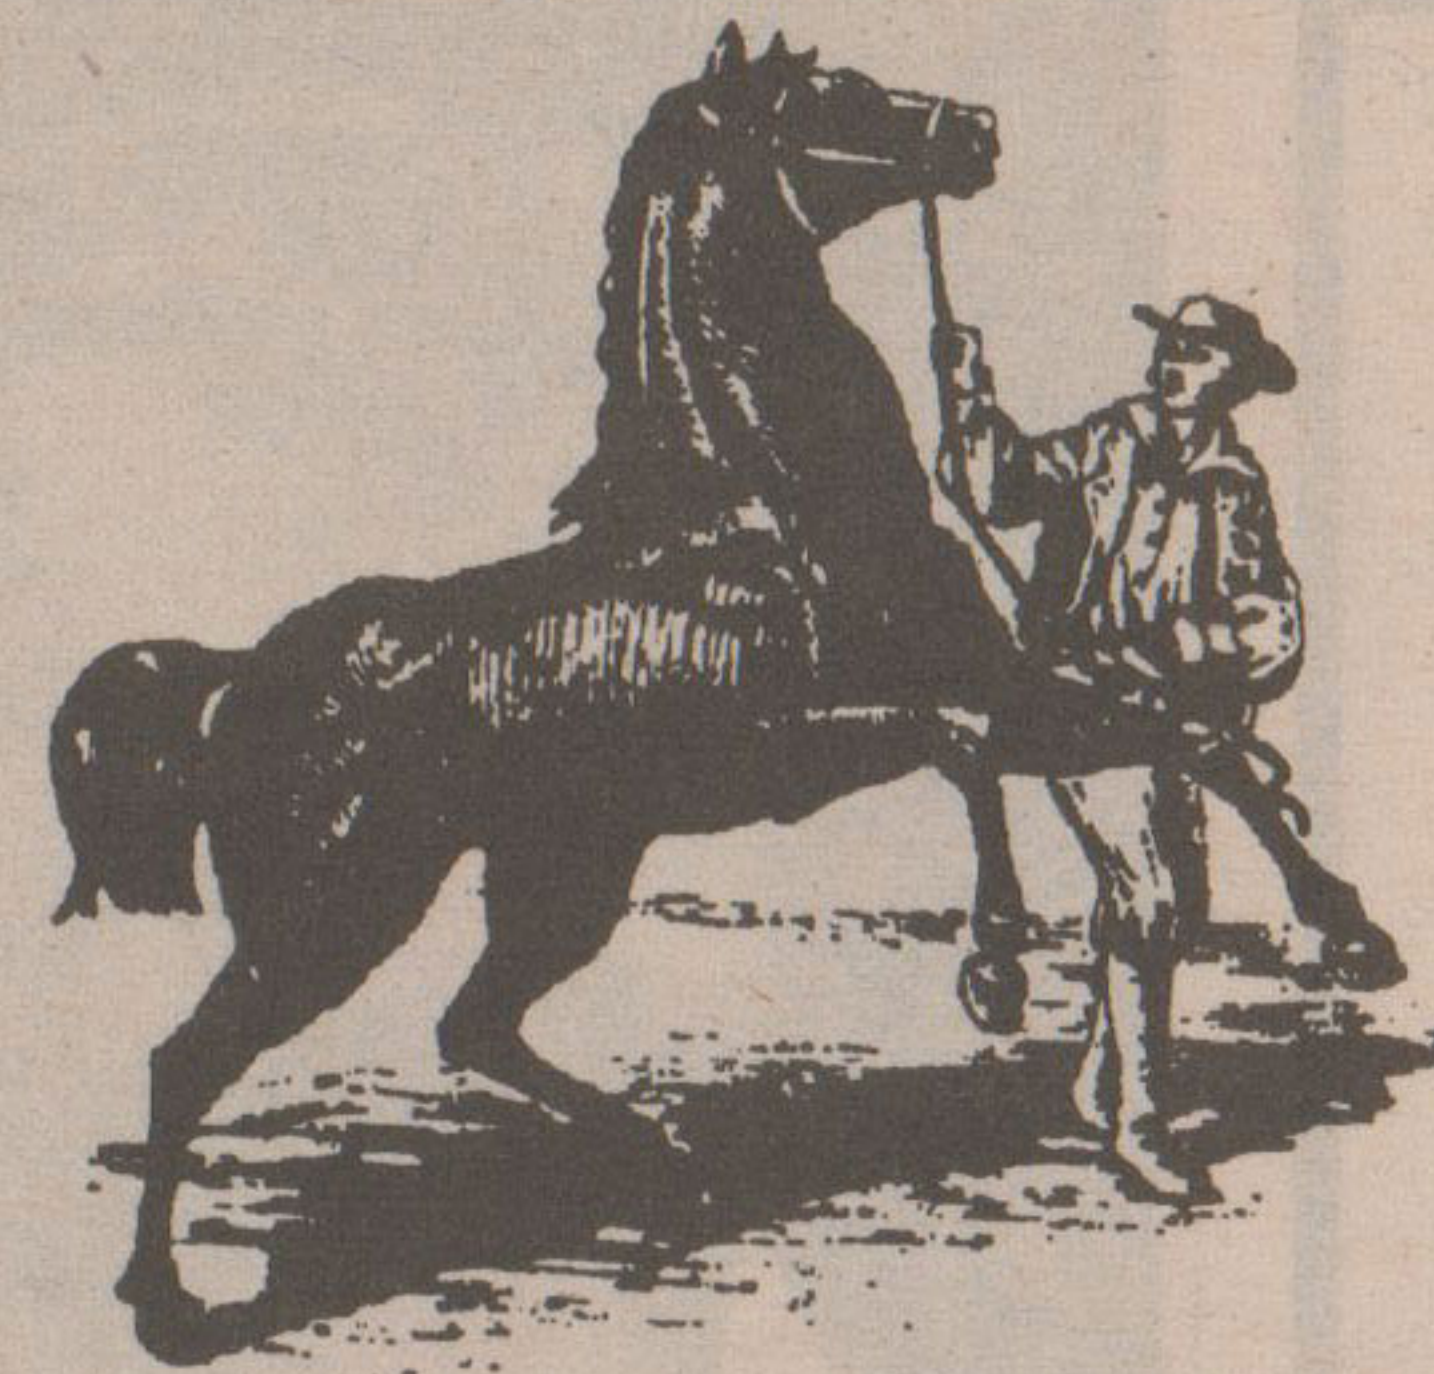

I want you to let me keep getting things done. I want you to vote for Jim Eberly, Regional Councillor, Wards 3 and Wards 4 on November 10.

Peel residential taxpayers may face a tax increase effective January 1, 1998.

Premier Mike Harris' government wants to pool property taxes across the Greater Toronto Area (GTA) to help pay for social services costs (welfare, social housing, child care, public health and ambulance) in the amalgamated City of Toronto.

IF THIS HAPPENS YOUR TAXES WILL GO UP HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS.

We asked Environics Research Group, a highly respected polling firm, to get your opinions on this issue. This is what you and your neighbours said:

How do 905 residents believe social services should be funded?

72% believe social services should continue to be funded through provincial income taxes paid by all Ontarians.

What do 905 residents think about pooling?

STOP POOLING — 77% of residents said they are opposed to pooling the cost of social services across the GTA to help pay for social services in the newly created City of Toronto.

Will pooling affect voting decisions?

STOP POOLING — 72% said the pooling issue will have an impact on the way they vote in the next provincial election.

What should MPPs do?

STOP POOLING — 89% say it is important that their local MPP voice their views on this issue.

What should the province do?

STOP POOLING — Make the right decision. Pooling social services costs across the GTA is wrong. It is unfair, unsustainable and inequitable.

To express your concern about 905 pooling, mail, fax or drop this off to:

FACTORY-TRAINED SALES & SERVICE SERVING PEEL REGION FOR OVER 30 YEARS

Bill Wilson is seeking election as Regional Councillor for Ward 5

For the 25 years I have lived in Bolton, I have had broad and intensive community involvement. My volunteer work with kids in beavers, cubs and soccer, and my writings as a columnist for the Bolton Enterprise and my substantial involvement with many Town groups have made a positive difference to my community.

As a founding member of the Caledon Environmental Advisory Committee, I have been directly involved in establishing Town positions on matters such as the recreation master Plan and the Bolton water supply issue.

As a vice-president of the Humber Valley Heritage trail Association, I have helped create a beautiful wilderness trail linking Palgrave to Bolton.

I am currently seeking the nomination of Bolton as a Community Action Site in partnership with the conservation authority. I am convinced that pulling together a number of interested groups to act in concert for a better Bolton can have an even more positive impact than if each of our groups acted independently. For example, I would explore the idea of using lands owned by the conservation authority on Upper Glasgow Road for badly needed soccer fields.

I will be retiring this year from my 25-year career with the province as an environmental manager and planner. My key responsibility was to ensure the province's extremely diverse real estate projects complied with or exceeded environmental laws. My work was broadly interdisciplinary and depended on understanding and bringing together a wide spectrum of professional skills.

The way I have made a positive difference in both my professional life and volunteer activities in Bolton has been to prioritize well-defined needs in collaboration with a team of the most directly affected people and then to follow through with focused, substantial, in-depth attention and work.

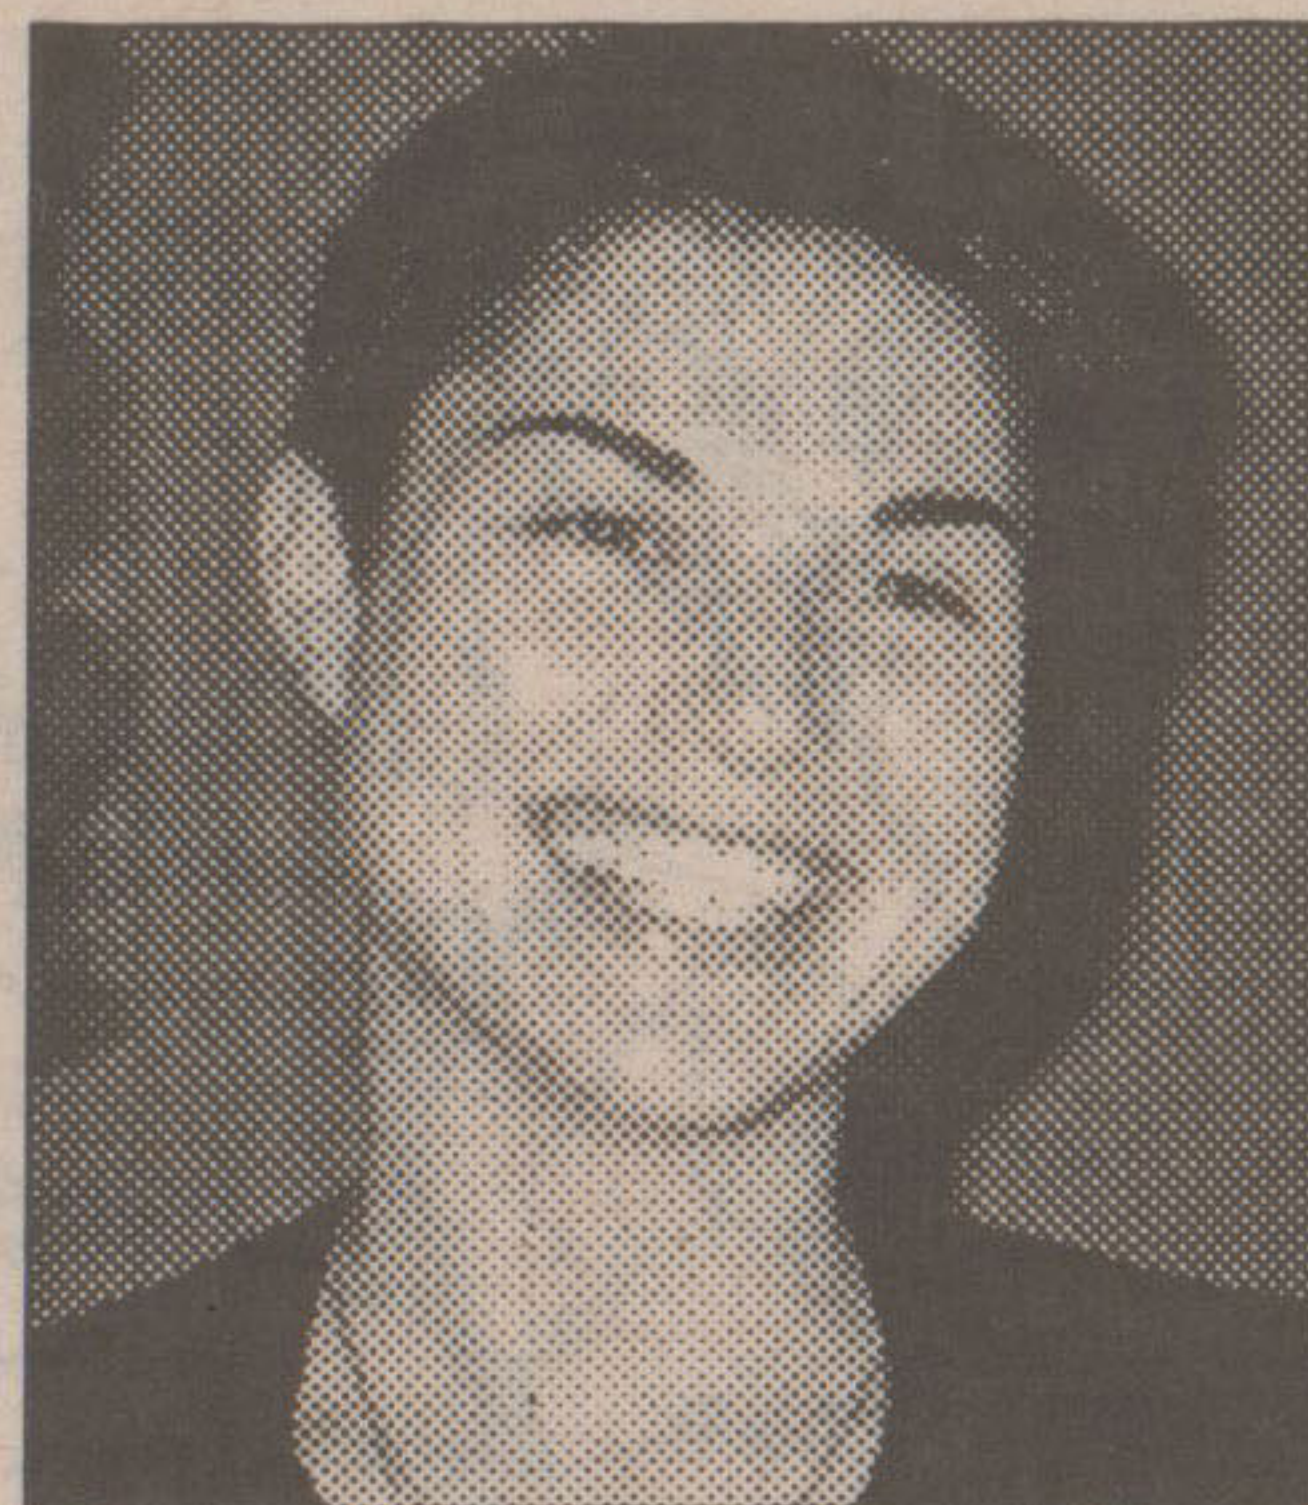

My approach to some of the key Bolton and Caledon issues, as I see them, are as follows;

- Relieve tax burden by planning for adequate regional sewer, water and roads to attract new commercial and industrial development.
- Continue to reap the benefits of our association with Peel while maintaining Caledon as Peel Region's necessary rural, green counterpart to the rest of Peel's large and growing urbanism.

- Convince the province that Caledon must have the say on planning decisions if it must now pay for downloaded infrastructure and local services.
- Continue to conserve and protect our local water resources.
- Encourage redevelopment of vacant commercial areas.
- Protect our sensitive environmental areas from unplanned development.
- Promote harmony on council.
- Ensure voluntarism is encouraged, facilitated and valued.

I believe my approach to issues and decisions, combined with my professional skills and knowledge make me well suited to be a member of your Caledon Council-staff team. I am asking for your vote on Nov. 10, to allow me to continue to make a positive difference for Bolton as your regional Councillor.

Christine Cooper is running for Regional Councillor for Ward 5

The most pressing question on everyone's mind is taxes.

Caledon council has kept a six-year check on zero increase. With the substantial increase of the commercial base over the past year I believe that another zero increase on the tax burden is a very realistic expectation.

In Bolton, commercial development has taken front and center attention. Not only does this development increase our tax base, which in turn should ease the tax burden on the residents, but it will create a demand for employment.

On the question of Town planning, I believe that we must maintain a clear vision of Bolton's future and be guided by our

Ready to hear the refrain: Hey, hey, it's the tax man?

The tax man is coming! That boogie man who sends shivers up the spines of most Canadians is usually a distant memory right about now. We are more inclined to think of goblins or ghosts as Halloween approaches. But this is exactly the period, between now and the end of the year, when investors need to remember the tax man and consider strategies that will keep him from your door, come April 1998.

Each year, taxes take a bigger and bigger bite out of our income - income that is hard to earn and becoming more and more difficult to sell, exclusively for that advisor's clients. But these clients have to move quickly. Often, much of the investment is spoken for within days of it coming on the market.

Investors must be ready when these financial products become available. They need to know their likely tax liability for that year and approximately how much of the tax-advantaged investment to purchase in order to offset part or all of the tax owing. They must also have cash set aside or have a line of credit established with a bank.

In summary, here are my quick tips on tax planning:

- start planning in January with an early estimation of income and potential tax liability. If you haven't started, begin now;

- maximize your RRSP contribution. Contribute early to get your money working for you all year long;

- set aside cash to purchase tax-advantaged investments or establish a line of credit. Your advisor can help you with this. Remember, the interest paid on investment loans is also tax deductible;

- ask your financial advisor about the variety of products that may shelter income from taxes. Look to products with strong to keep.

Many taxpayers may feel that their incomes are not high enough to warrant special attention. I tell my clients: if you pay taxes, you can benefit from tax planning.

Many others feel that working to reduce taxes is somehow unethical - almost like tax evasion. Even the tax man would disagree.

Revenue Canada provides tax benefits to Canadians as an incentive to invest in various sectors of the economy. It encourages taxpayers to take full advantage of these investments.

Developing a plan to lower your tax burden is responsible and prudent.

It's important to remember that tax planning is a year long activity. Without a detailed and consistently applied tax management strategy, you may find yourself a victim of hasty decisions on investment products that may have great tax advantages, but are bad investments from the word go.

The moral? Begin your plan today. December is too late. The best tax-advantaged investments have already been swallowed up by the top one per cent of the country's income earners. With these investments working for them, they often end up paying less tax than the average Canadian. How do they do it?

The answer is simple. They are working with a personal tax plan and with an investment advisor. The advisor is allocated a specific amount of the investment product by the financial product whole-management and solid results, not just the amount of money sheltered. A bad investment is still a bad investment, no matter how much tax you save.

Two of the most popular tax-advantaged products are:

- Oil and Gas Development Partnerships that offer a 100 per cent write-off over five years on the initial investment. Also, income from producing wells has tax benefits;

- Oil and Gas Royalty Trusts that have tax advantaged income, stock market liquidity and are RRSP eligible.

The Song of the Shadows

We are the shadows of the night,
We come to haunt and cause you fright.

Dawn and dusk we will surround you laughing, jeering, daring you to leave your home, you can't go wrong.
Become a part of our endless song.

A song of emptiness we sing,
A soulless creature is our king.

For us this is our only home,
We left the good one long ago.

If you aren't careful I'll see you here,
And we will sing our song of fear.

By Alyssa Holland, Grade 6

A Japanese doom

Our country shakes heavily
Our lives might end soon

It's almost time

All the sweets taste delicious
Here come my two guests

The moon is bright,

Its light reflects,

On the sparkling snow.

No one will know,

Until the sun's bright face,
Will show.

BROKEN HEARTS

I asked a woman to be,
But all she did was flee.
I called her up with some belief,
But all she did was give me grief.
I went to the store to buy a ring,
But all she did was wack me "TING".
I went to work to get my pay,
But all I did was give up that day.
I knew I lost something in my heart,
I could tell she broke a big part.
I forgot how many times I tried,
But when I thought of her, I cried.
I called her up, holding the ring,
When she said: "YES" I said "Ca Ching".

Official Plan. This way there are no surprises. A well planned community must reflect the diverse needs of all who live there.

We must also continue to reinforce our commitment to protecting the fragile environment. I am very proud of Caledon's proactive approach to maintaining a healthy environment and being a part of the Region's of Peel's Waste management plans has been a big plus for Caledon.

The rapidly increasing demand for additional recreation facilities needs to be addressed and we must make a commitment to sponsoring, partnering and developing facilities where we can provide the growing number of families and children living in Bolton with safe and stimulating places to meet and play.

These are just a few of the issues we face in Bolton.

Bolton deserves strong straight-forward leadership.

My active participation in this community has shown my commitment not only to the community, but also to being a team player with strong leadership skills and a willingness to work together for the betterment of our community now and in the future.

Council ceremony to designate homes

Caledon has designated another 14 properties as Heritage Structures.

At an Oct. 16 plaque presentation evening in council chambers, Caledon Heritage Committee Chair Heather Broadbent gave an impressive slide show of the areas more than 80 designated sites.

Ceremony chair, councillor Lucy Kristan, councillor Richard Whitehead, councillor Pierre Klein and mayor Carol Seglins were also on hand to congratulate the nominees and offer their praise for the recipients dedication to preserving their properties.

Among those selected this year were: Mr. & Mrs. Fred Lemieux, for the former St. John's Anglican Church; Ms. Susan Barrington, for Balsam Villa-Peace Ranch; Mrs. Diane Waldie, for Daledy-Waldie House; Mr. & Mrs. Steve Craig, for Haines-Lyons House; Mr. & Mrs. Peter Hood, for Unicorn House; Mr. & Mrs. David Hughes, for Dods Long House; Ms. Linda Pim, for Graham-Wilson-Pim House; Mr. & Mrs. Gary Haslett, for Mitchell-Haslett House; Mr. A. Russell, for the Millcroft Inn; Mr. & Mrs. Bruce Craggs, for Ridgehouse; Mr. & Mrs. Brian Willer, for Ward-Willer House; Mr. & Mrs. John Haney, for Baxter-Haney House; Mr. & Mrs. Phillip Staite, for Atkinson-Staite House; and Ms. Fran Livingston, for the Outback and Company buiding.

Armstrong floors can take anything you dish out.

How easy is it to clean an Armstrong floor? Grab a paper towel, moisten it, and use Armstrong Once 'n Done® cleaner and water. Wipe up the spill. That's it. And that's why I work with Armstrong flooring. It takes whatever a family dishes out. Looks great, too.

"I'm glad it's an Armstrong floor."
